ENTHUSIASTIC CONVENTION

Full of Harmony With a Big H. A Stirring and Eloquent Speech by Hon. S. C. Burdett-Good Republican Gospel.

Ilinton, W. Va., August 21.—The battle is over and Major Theophilus Gaines, of Fayette, will lead the Republican lists of the Third district to victory in November. The convention was harmonious and enthusiastic, and although the friends of Major McGinnis."

Full delegations were present from nearly every county in the district, particularly Kanawha, here full representation of lorty-seven being present, and business was disposed of in a business-like way. The morning session was occupied in preliminary business, the appointment of committees, etc., and a recess was taken until 2 o'clock.

The Committee on Organization re-

The Committee on Organization re The Committee on Organization reported A. S. Fuiler, of Greenbrier, as permanent chairman, and the Republican editors as secretaries, which report was adopted. As the other committees were not ready, Hon. S. C. Burdett was called upon and responded in a characteristic speech.

BURDETT'S BRIGHT SPEECH.

He said: "Gentlemen, we stand to-day lace to face with a sweeping Republican victory. The nominee of this convention will undoubtedly be elected to represent the old Third district in Congress, and by a majority so large that even the "twe" issue nor the entire list of Democratic abbreviations will be able to overcome it, but will cause the Dem to overcome it, but will cause the Dem-cratic cheek to grow pale in its pres-ence. The "migratory" gentlemen will be found to have become stationary, and will be at the polls next November. The "young unmarried voter from Sim-mons creek" will be there to vote, and his vote will be counted. Our Demo-cratic friends will awake to the realiza-tion of the fact that "John Cooper & Co.'s pay rolls" and that the "general Co.'s pay rells" and that the "general reputation" of the men whose names appear on these rolls is, "that they are Republicans." General Goff was elected Governor two years ago and was defrauded out of his high office by the najust and shauneful subversion of the constitution, and the most contemptible methods known to political warfare, that would cause the face of a Digger Indian to blush with shame. But we will elect General Goff in 1892 by a majority so large even the Democracy will not dare to tamper with it.

DAY OF DOOM AT HAND.

The day of the Democrate doom is at hand as surely as was that of Babylon's wicked king when he beheld upon the wall, the worde, "Thou hast been was heard of wash with each was and for the wall to de man who will make a good your waste and to de my share of wash with each was a major to the properties of the properties.

In the race for Congress, and in the whole convention Moreover, Mr. Elkins is not an aspirant for Congressional nomination. To a representative of the Incantal committee, of course, the kindly references to me in this connection. The Democratic party is a party of creakers and objectors, and has originated no great idea tor the last. fifty years. It has been the cardinal doctrine of the Democratic party to oppose every good thing emanlating from a Republican source, because forsooth it was a Republican measure. Limagine sometimes that if our Democratic friends get to the good world their eyes will scarcely open upon the beauties of the celestial city before they will begin to pick faws in the joints of the pearly gates of the new Jerusalem, and to criticise the architecture of heaven itself.

THE GRAND OLD PARTY. of the Democratic party, what Republiparty? What name shines with brighter lustre in history than that of Abraham lustre in history than that of Abraham Lincoln, or whose name awakens deeper emotion than that of murdered Garfield, beside whose dying bed a weeping nation bowed in tearful grief? And there was Grant! The colorsal figure of the century, a figure giving more majesty as the years roll on. And still living there is the Plumed Knight of Maine, who through all the vicissitudes of fortune walks erect, a king among his fellows. And there is John Sherman, and brave Tom Reed, with hundreds more whom I might name. After four years of bloody war there came the work of restoring war there came the work of restoring the waste places, and out of the ashes and desolation of war has arisen a new ingham and a hundred other cities have become great manufacturing conters. Wildernesses clothed a short time ago in silence and desolation have been swept away and mighty cities have taken their places. The treasures atored in the mbuntain sides have been dragged out by the muscled hand of labor, and ten thousand glowing furnace fires brighten the beavens, where silence regimed between where silence regimed bethe heavens where silence reigned be

And what have our Democratic friends to say? Why standing in the midst of the greatest prosperity the nation has ever known, standing in the presence of sixty-four millions of enlightened people, with a quarter of a century of unparalleled progress, with the hum of industry heard upon every hand, they ery "the tariff is a tax," a cry grown threadbare in the days of Andrew Jack. con, a cry, the truth of which has been disproven by our country's history and the universal experience of mankind. The Committee on Resolutions being The Committee on Resolutions being ready to report, Mr. Burdett stopped at this point, and amid thundering applause the resolutions endorsing the administration, Major McGinnis for his fight for his sent in Congress, declaring for pretection and expressing sympathy for the brave Republicans in Mercer, who have been the victims of Democratic judicial persecution, were read.
